

Table of Contents

	Page
Abstract	i
Dedication	ii
Acknowledgement	iii
Table of Contents	v
List of Figures	ix
List of Tables	xii
Acronyms	xvi
CHAPTER 1: GENERAL INTRODUCTION	1
1.1 Background of Research	1
1.2 Aims	2
1.3 Research Focus on Hand-woven Textiles	2
1.4 Objectives	2
1.5 Justification for the Selection of Case Study Sites	3
1.6 Thesis Structure	4
CHAPTER 2: LITERATURE REVIEW: THEORETICAL FRAMEWORK AND CONTEXTS	6
2.1 Authenticity	6
2.1.1 Genesis of Authenticity	6
2.1.2 Is Authenticity Important and Relevant Today?	7
2.1.3 Authenticity in Philosophy, Morality and Ethics	7
2.1.4 Authenticity in the Arts	8
2.1.5 Authenticity in Tourism	10
2.1.6 Authenticity in Souvenir and Crafts	12
2.1.7 Authenticity and Sociology	19
2.1.8 Authenticity in Conservation	20
2.1.9 Occidental and Non-Occidental Views of Authenticity	22
2.2 Mosuo	25
2.2.1 Principal Features of the Mosuo Culture	26
2.2.2 Tourism Development	28
2.2.3 Cultural Transformation	28
2.2.4 Mosuo Hand-woven Textiles	29
2.2.5 Contemporary Identity of the Mosuo	30
2.3 Bhutan	32
2.3.1 History	32
2.3.2 Geography, Climate, Flora and Fauna, Population and Demographics	33
2.3.3 Religion and Culture	33
2.3.4 Development Framework and GNH	36
2.3.5 Economy and Economic Crisis	36
2.3.6 Cultural Industries	37
2.3.7 Textile Industry	37
2.3.8 Challenges of the Hand-woven Textile Sector	38
2.3.9 Addressing the Challenges	39
2.3.10 Kira Textiles	41

	Page
2.4 Harris Tweed	54
2.4.1 History and the Development of Harris Tweed	55
2.4.2 Characteristics of Harris Tweed	61
2.4.3 The Future of Harris Tweed	67
2.5 Discussion and Summary	69
2.5.1 Paradigms of Authenticity	69
2.5.2 Mosuo	74
2.5.3 Bhutan	75
2.5.4 Harris Tweed	76
CHAPTER 3: PILOT STUDIES	80
3.1 Lessons Indicated from Pilot Studies	81
3.1.1 Field Research	81
3.1.2 Case Studies	82
3.1.3 Open and Closed Questionnaires	82
3.1.4 Structured Interviews	83
3.1.5 Semi-Structured Interviews	84
3.1.6 Free-Style/Exploratory/Open-ended Interviews	84
3.1.7 Unobtrusive Observations at Interview Sites	85
3.1.8 Photography, Video, Audio Recordings and Note Taking	85
3.1.9 Usage of Exemplars	86
3.1.10 Interpretation	86
3.1.11 Political, Social and Cultural Context	86
3.1.12 Focus Group as Compared with Individual Face-to-Face Interviews	88
3.1.13 Establishing Trustworthiness	88
3.1.14 Research Ethics	89
3.1.15 Preparation	89
3.1.16 Sampling	89
3.1.17 Transcribing	90
3.2 Discussion and Summary	90
3.2.1 Identification of Markers of Authenticity through Deconstruction	90
3.2.2 Methods Determined as Not Suitable for Study	92
3.2.3 Flexibility in Approach	92
3.2.4 Final Methodology Adopted	93
CHAPTER 4: METHODOLOGY	94
4.1 Field Research	94
4.2 Case Study	94
4.3 Open and Closed Questionnaire	94
4.4 Semi-Structure Interviews	95
4.5 Unobtrusive Observations at Interview Sites	95
4.6 Photography, Video and Audio Recording and Note Taking	95
4.7 Use of Exemplars	95
4.8 Interpretations	95
4.9 Political, Social and Cultural Context	96
4.10 Individual Face-to-Face Interviews	97
4.11 Reflective Journal	97

	Page
4.12 Establishing Trustworthiness	97
4.13 Quantitative Data	97
4.14 Documentation and Reflection	98
4.15 Transcribing	98
4.16 Preparation	98
4.17 Logistics	99
4.18 Research Ethical Considerations	99
4.19 Organisation Procedures	99
4.20 Sampling	100
4.21 Phase 1	101
4.22 Testing of Phase 1 (Semi-Structured Questionnaire)	106
4.23 Mosuo Case Study: Phase 2	106
4.24 Bhutan Case Study: Phase 2	108
4.24.1 Context and Justification	108
4.24.2 Methodology	108
4.25 Harris Tweed Case Study: Phase 2	109
4.26 Discussion and Summary	109
CHAPTER 5: FINDINGS AND DISCUSSIONS	111
5.1 Mosuo Case Study	111
5.1.1 Phase 1	111
5.1.2 Phase 2	136
5.1.3 Discussion	147
5.1.4 Interim Conclusion	152
5.2 Bhutan Case Study	153
5.2.1 Phase 1	153
5.2.2 Phase 1(a)	177
5.2.3 Phase 2	191
5.2.4 Discussion	195
5.2.5 Interim Conclusion	204
5.3 Harris Tweed	205
5.3.1 Phase 1	205
5.3.2 Phase 2	225
5.3.3 Discussion	240
5.3.4 Interim Conclusion	243
5.4 Discussion: Comparing Markers of Authenticity from Mosuo, Bhutanese Kira and Harris Tweed Hand-woven Textiles	246
5.4.1 Institutionalisation	246
5.4.2 Social Perspective	248
5.4.3 Psychological Dimension	249
5.4.4 Site and Geography	249
5.4.5 Commercial and Non-Commercial Considerations	249
5.4.6 Pride	250

CHAPTER 6: CONCLUSION AND DIRECTIONS FOR FUTURE WORK	Page 253
6.1 Weavers Identifying Markers of Authenticity Of Their Own Textiles	253
6.2 Methods Weavers Use To Identify Markers of Authenticity	253
6.3 Methods To Elicit Weavers' Markers Of Authenticity	254
6.4 Identification Of Markers Of Authenticity For Community-based And Culturally Bound Hand-woven Textiles	255
6.5 Implications Of Markers of Authenticity	256
6.6 Significance Of The Maker's Articulation Of Authenticity	258
6.7 Contributions To The Current Discussions On Authenticity And Other Cultural Realms	259
6.8 Directions for Future Work	259
6.9 Significance of This Study	261
REFERENCES	263
BIBLIOGRAPHY	291
APPENDICES
Appendix A – Questionnaire Testing	A-1
Appendix B - Interview Protocol	B-1
Appendix C – Logistics Requirements for Field Research	C-1
Appendix D – Application for Ethical Approval for Research	D-1
Appendix E – Consent Form for Field Research	E-1
Appendix F – Phase 1	F-1
Appendix G – Mosuo Case Study Phase 2	G-1
Appendix H – Harris Tweed Case Study Phase 2: Covering Letter and Questionnaire	H-1